Zappy believes his life mission is to right the wrong of psychedelic prohibition, which began the day after he was born.

He founded the Mind Army social movement, which is fighting for the right to pursue happiness. The Mind Army is asking the President to sign an Executive Order making psychedelics legal for triaging the S.A.D. epidemics: Suicide, Addiction, and Depression. The Mind Army believes it is every human being's inalienable right to use these highly effective medicines to treat depression and addiction in this crisis moment.

Zappy also co-founded The Ketamine Fund, which provides free ketamine treatments to veterans suffering from PTSD or those having suicidal ideations. The mission is to dramatically lower suicide rates. Zappy is confident that if society can use psychedelic catalysts like ketamine to quickly and safely break the patterns of depression, anxiety, addiction, PTSD, and other mental health issues, life will be better for everyone.
